To Whom It May Concern:

Re: Karen Janigan

I have known Karen Janigan in both a personal and business capacity since 1979. Her professional approach and outstanding commitment to excellence have served Karen well in a number of her endeavors. In our dealings over the years she has always shown herself to be dedicated, dependable and well respected by her peers.

As a former journalist, I always found Karen to be a colleague who strived to maintain the highest standards of our profession. She continually exhibited an outstanding ability to identify emerging issues and focus on new angles of current news stories. Karen has an excellent understanding of the diverse needs of multi media and her ability to adapt her skills to different working environments has proven to be one of her strongest assets. She is also an accomplished writer whose work has been well regarded.

I would not hesitate to recommend Karen Janigan to any organization that seeks to attract people of the highest caliber. I would be happy to speak with you personally should you find it helpful to contact me.

Sincerely,
